3. Legal information

You are visiting MEDIMAGE SA website (hereafter « MEDIMAGE »). The following legal notices apply to every Internet user visiting this website. We thank you to read carefully these notices before any access to the following pages of the website. The information grouped in this website is only intended for an institutional presentation of the activities of the medical imaging center MEDIMAGE SA.

MEDIMAGE reserves the right to modify the content, to interrupt or to suspend all or some of the features of the website at any moment and without notice. MEDIMAGE cannot be held responsible for the consequences of such modifications. Access and use of this website are submitted to the following conditions as well as legal provisions in force. By accessing the website, you agree, without limitation nor reserve, these conditions.

4. IT, freedom & privacy

MEDIMAGE is committed to respecting the confidentiality of the personal information provided by visitors of this website. You will find hereafter the type of data MEDIMAGE is able to collect when you visit its website, and also how it will be used later.

These data and their treatment are protected by the Swiss Federal Law on Data Protection of June, 19th 1992 (FAPD) and, to the extent applicable, by the General Data Protection Regulation of the European Union (GDPR) entered into force on May, 25th 2018.

a) Passive collection of personal data

Some of the personal data stored on our server are those that you voluntarily provide when filling out forms online, and others are collected automatically. During your visit, some data is collected automatically:

- Your IP address;
- Your login when you browse the restricted areas of the website;
- The address of the website from which you are directly connected to this website;
- The date and time of your visit to the website and the pages you visited;
- The operation system of your computer and the navigation software.
- The website www.medimagesa.ch does not make use of persistent cookies residing on your hard drive.

b) Use of collected data

MEDIMAGE will only use the collected data to meet the requests of the website visitors. MEDIMAGE will only use personal data for the purposes indicated to you at the time you provided them. The personal data that you have provided or resulting from your navigation on the website are reserved for strictly internal use of MEDIMAGE. Personal data will not be commercially exploited and will not be passed on to anyone for commercial purposes or business development.

c) Confidentiality measures

MEDIMAGE has set up dedicated resources allowing to store safely the personal data in order to avoid loss, alterations or hacking.

d) Access to personal data

In order to allow the use of personalization functions, you will be asked to provide personal data (surname, address, email). You are completely free to refuse to transmit such data. However, you may not be able to access certain features or receive the requested information.

At your request, MEDIMAGE will delete or modify the personal data you have provided. If you wish to access to your personal data, have them modified, rectified or ask for their deletion, please send your request by letter to MEDIMAGE administration service, route de Florissant 1, 1206 Genève.

MEDIMAGE reserves the right to modify at any time the rules of operation of the website set out above.

5. Nominative information published on the website
